Wyoming State Capitol: Cheyenne

After being closed for a four-year restoration and rehabilitation project, the Wyoming Capitol is now open for self-guided tours 8 a.m. - 5 p.m., Monday - Friday. The Capitol has undergone extensive rehabilitation to replace outdated building systems, add critical life safety infrastructure, and address public space needs, especially the need for larger meeting rooms. This invasive work also created the opportunity to restore the Capitol's historic features, returning the building back to its original majestic grandeur.

No room in the Capitol has been more radically transformed by this project than the Historic Supreme Court Chamber. The Chamber has been returned to its original size by eliminating a partition wall and reclaiming the two-story volume and public balcony. Original features included extensive decorative painting and a stained glass lay light and chandelier, which had been moved in the 1970s but have now been restored to their original location. This magnificent and historic Chamber is now the largest meeting room in the Capitol and will seat approximately 75 members of the public.

A large part of the Convention focused on women's suffrage, a right Wyoming women had held since 1869. It was in this Chamber that representatives enshrined women's suffrage within the Wyoming State Constitution, becoming the first state to do so and making this one of the most historically significant chambers in the country.

Mammoth Hot Springs Hotel & Cabins: Yellowstone National Park

Mammoth Hot Springs Hotel & Cabins, opened in 1883 and named after the nearby springs, just completed a two-year renovation program. The hotel's guest rooms have been updated to include private bathrooms in all of them and the premium rooms have been updated to include larger beds, coffee makers, refrigerators and other amenities. The famed Map Room has been transformed to a lounge area with new furniture and a small bar that will serve coffee and alcoholic beverages while staying true to its 1920's era style. The large wooden wall map designed by architect Robert Reamer in the 1930's has also been restored.

The old second floor offices were converted to multiple public meeting areas and the gift shop was expanded to make way for new products and to accommodate the Mammoth Ski shop for winter visitors. Additionally work was done to update the fire systems, concrete, and asphalt in the hotel and adjacent buildings. <https://www.yellowstonenationalparklodges.com>

Devils Tower After Dark

America's National Park Service sites contain many cherished treasures. As darkness falls on Devils Tower, a different kind of light illuminates the night sky. That light comes from objects in deep space, and transforms the night from a place of darkness into a place of wonder. The night sky inspires human lives too. Oral histories about the Tower incorporate tribal star knowledge. Astronomers and night sky photographers seek out the darkness of parks like Devils Tower National Monument, islands of night in an ever-brighter world. What inspiration can you find as you enjoy the darker side of the first national monument? The park offers many great viewing locations as well as hosts night sky programs throughout the year.

English Tunnel-South Pass City State Historic Site

Follow in the footsteps of a miner from 1868 and explore the English Tunnel. The English Tunnel is an adit cut into the living rock in 1868 and abandoned for over 150 years. South Pass City State Historic Site has restored the tunnel and opened it for tours. The tunnel, named for its English financial backers, is one of the state's earliest mining features. Visitors will find traces left by the mine workers, like the candles they used to light the tunnel. The South Pass City State Historic Site includes the Carissa Mine and 29 original town buildings people can tour. But it's more than a historic town and mine. The historic site spans 389 acres with nearly five miles of interpretive trails. <https://www.southpasscity.com/tours>
